

Support the SALIS Collection: Giving Tuesday, November 28, 2017

SALIS (Substance Abuse Librarians and Information Specialists) is building a digital archive of important books and reports in the Alcohol, Tobacco and Other Drug (ATOD) field in partnership with the Internet Archive. "The SALIS Collection," as it is called, is available to anyone, anywhere in the world: for FREE! Some books can be read online, e-borrowed, and, in some cases, even downloaded, depending on copyright status.

Check it out here! <http://archive.org/details/salis/>

Why is this important? Preservation of the knowledge in the ATOD field is essential given the loss or dramatic downsizing of nearly 60 specialist ATOD libraries and databases. See this Letter to the Editor of Addiction by Andrea Mitchell, Executive Director of SALIS: <http://onlinelibrary.wiley.com/doi/10.1111/add.14016/full>

Librarians and information specialists in the field are working to protect this information and to make it available to all researchers, clinicians, students, friends/family members, and individuals who want to learn from it. The SALIS Collection features over 1500 books already, but there are so many more valuable texts we want to add!

YOU CAN BE A PART OF THIS IMPORTANT PROJECT!

It only costs $30 to make a book available to the entire world – and what a difference even one book can make! To help us reach our goal of $6000 – 200 books digitized – the SALIS Executive Board is offering to match the first $1000 donated on Giving Tuesday, an international day celebrating charitable giving, this November 28th, 2017.

There are two ways you can be a part of the SALIS Collection:

- Support us on Giving Tuesday, November 28th! Our crowdfunding platform Razoo* is waiving its platform fees on Giving Tuesday, maximizing your donation! Donate on the 28th here: <https://www.razoo.com/story/saliscollection>
- Make a donation any time, through the SALIS Website, <http://salis.org>. From there, you will have the option of donating through PayPal or mailing a check to SALIS Home.

Please help us preserve all this vitally important information. We need your help to continue to build the collection, book by book!

* Razoo will not share your information with third parties or send you unsolicited emails. For more see: https://www.razoo.com/a/terms_and_privacy.
