San Diego Symposium

Alcohol and Other Drug Information Resources: An International Symposium will take place March 9-13, in San Diego, hosted by UC San Diego's Extension Program on Alcohol Issues. By now most of you have probably made your reservations -- but if you haven't, there is still time.

The first of its kind, this meeting brings together federal government officials of many of the major data collection systems of the alcohol and other drug fields and the intermediaries who access and utilize the information from these systems, librarians, researchers, policy makers, etc. There will be presentations on publicly available data bases such as the Alcohol Data Base, Cork-Online, NIAAA's Quick Facts, as well as descriptions of some of the major data collection systems such as the NIDA Household and senior surveys; (FARS) Fatal Accident Reporting System, NHTSA; (BRFSS) Behavioral Risk Factor Surveillance System (CDC), etc. Emerging issues in information transfer, international concerns, building a network, secondary sources, and more. If you would like to see an agenda or register, call (619) 534-3400. Tuition of $250.00 includes all sessions, exhibits, demonstrations, meals and refreshments per the agenda, and proceedings document.

SALIS Conference Highlights

Many new challenges and projects face the SALIS organization this year after the very successful and stimulating 9th annual meeting in Edmonton in early November. More than 70 persons were in attendance, the largest conference to date. The theme of this year's meeting was The Dissemination of Information Between Nations: A Support and Link To Activities in the Alcohol and Drug Field. Marcus Grant, chief of the Mental Health Division of WHO, delivered a keynote which raised issues about the lack of alcohol and drug problems information in developing countries and the ways that SALIS might go about aiding WHO in reducing these problems. Several suggestions offered in his address included:
1) Twinning -- a method of matching a SALIS library with a center in one of the developing countries to act as a sister library.
2) The development of a manual, a "how to" set up an information service, to be utilized by the developing countries.
3) Creating a partnership with WHO concerning "information access and advocacy."

SALIS Membership

It's that time of the year once again, and dues of $25.00 are being received by the new Secretary and Membership Chair, Margy Chan. A form for renewal is inside this issue with address and phone given. Remember, if you became a first time member of SALIS at the SALIS conference in Edmonton, or anytime after September 30, we consider you a SALIS member for 1988.

CSR Wins Contracts

Congratulations to CSR, Inc. for winning both the Office for Substance Abuse Prevention and the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism contracts. OSAP will provide the funds for the newly combined National Clearinghouse for Alcohol and Drug Information, and NIAAA will support the continuation and maintenance of the Alcohol Data Base and the publication of Alcohol, Health and Research World.

What this means is that essentially all of the major functions of the old NCALI will still be performed by one organization. Essentially this should avoid duplication and competition between the contracts and still give the consumers "one-stop shopping"! New personnel and some of the familiar names from NCALI have begun work under the new contracts, but much work is still ahead. There is a new location for the Clearinghouse, although the post office box and phone number will remain the same.

PO Box 2345
Rockville, MD 20852
(301) 468-2600

The new librarian for the OSAP Clearinghouse is Lisa A. Swanberg. The new librarian for the NIAAA Alcohol Data Base is Ellen McGinn. Joan Hurley is the director of the Clearinghouse. Steve Sonner is the new editor of Alcohol, Health and Research World and Chief for the Alcohol Data Base project.

In early January, CSR invited five SALIS librarians to Rockville to make recommendations on the direction and plans for the new Clearinghouse.

Online and Database News

The alcohol data base, produced by the former National Clearinghouse for Alcohol Information under contract from the NIAAA, is soon to be released. BRS, Bibliographic Retrieval Services, will vend the information data base under the code name ETOH. Coverage will include the years 1984 to the present, with abstracts of books, journal articles, government documents, and conference papers. A demonstration of this on-line data base will be exhibited at the San Diego Symposium. BRS regularly offers training for their system in major cities in the U.S. and elsewhere. Call or write them for their time schedule of workshops. Contact:

SALIS Directory Addenda

Libraries from Czechoslovakia and Montana have been added to the SALIS Directory 1987-88. Please see the entries on page 7 of this issue which can be easily removed to include in the Directory.

Membership gives you a subscription to SALIS News, one copy of the SALIS Directory, bylaws of the organization, and many free materials from the National Clearinghouse for Alcohol and Drug Information. Specifically, you will automatically receive updates, fact sheets, and bibliographies as they are produced by the Clearinghouse, Prevention Pipelinge, and Alcohol Health and Research World. Currently the Fall issue of AH&RW should be coming to you, as well as the Prevention Pipelinge, Vol. 1, No. 1, which includes the new Alcohol and Other Drug Awareness Service. If you have not received either of these materials by March 15, please contact Mary Milar at the Clearinghouse.

In this issue, the names of all of the new/first time members in SALIS for 1988 are listed along with the new officers. In the next issue we will list all of the 1988 membership. Make sure you get your dues in by the deadline -- April 1 -- so that you will be on this list. See form inside.

The developing countries are "data poor," according to Grant, and without funds to buy books and journals. SALIS needs to continue to advocate the importance of access to information and to assist in making information more widely available. Although the WHO produces many publications dealing with the international alcohol and drug abuse problems, this material is not always widely disseminated.

David Archibald, president of the International Council on Alcohol and the Addictions, invited SALIS to consider the idea of forming a special section within ICAA. Marcy Chan and others will investigate what this would mean for SALIS and its individual members.

Bob Denniston, Director, Division of Communications Programs for Office on Substance Abuse Prevention presented an organizational chart of ADAMHA and clarified the various roles and responsibilities of all of the new divisions of OSAP, the Clearinghouse, and the materials development project.

Bette Reimer, Conference Chair, acting on the theme of the symposium presented four resolutions for discussion and endorsement.

1) SALIS will continue to assume a leading role in the international exchange of information in the alcohol and drug field. To this end, SALIS supports the need to systematize the international exchange of information. SALIS recognizes the importance of the consideration of the information needs of developing countries in this endeavor.

2) SALIS will actively pursue the support and collaboration of national and international agencies to ensure a systematic method of information exchange is established.

3) SALIS will continue to actively campaign to increase its network, particularly with respect to representatives from developing countries.

4) SALIS will adopt a strong advocacy position and will lobby to raise the awareness of the other sectors (policy; treatment; prevention; education; research) to ensure adequate attention is given to the needs of the information sector.

All were unanimously approved. Further business included:
- a resolution that SALIS officially invite special interest group (SIG) membership from Australia, the South Pacific and East Asia;
- the creation of a thesaurus committee under the chair of Elva Yanez, Prevention Research Center (NOTE: This group will meet in San Diego in March)
- a proposed union list project to be coordinated at Rutgers.

Anyone who would like to see complete minutes of the business meeting should contact Marcy Chan, SALIS Secretary.

WHO Publications

To follow up on Marcus Grant's suggestion, (see Conference Highlights), a new column on WHO publications will become a regular feature in SALIS News. WHO disseminates a publications catalog, entitled Drug Abuse/Alcohol Abuse which lists and annotates selected documents put out by WHO in recent years. The following are a few current documents to note:

For a copy of the publications list or individual publications, write to the WHO Publications center in your country.

Addiction Program Management: The monthly advisory for addiction program executives and managers. Vol. 1, No. 1, September 1987. In SALIS News, Vol. 6, No. 4, information concerning this newsletter was taken from material in the publisher's announcement. With the 24 page premier issue in hand, here are a few of the news items being featured. Most importantly, one gets the text of the newly devised JCAH accreditation standards for addiction programs along with some commentary and explanation. These standards will appear as separate chapters in both the Accreditation Manual for Hospitals and the Consolidated Standards Manual. Further highlights include "Targeted TV ads boost volume," "Aftercare: model programs share tips," "Selling to corporate business," "Effective ways to maximize collections," and "Dealing with drug diversion."

Epidemiologic Report -- a monthly which began in May of 1987, has just made its way to my desk. Produced by the (AEDS) Alcohol Epidemiologic Data System, in cooperation with NIAAA's Division of Biometry and Epidemiology, this two page newsletter is worth a lot more than its weight . . . Interestingly, the first line of the first issue reads "AEDS Might Be NIAAA's 'Best Kept Secret' Says DBE's Director." The newsletter contains information on the various alcohol and other data collection efforts of the federal government, new findings as analyzed by the AEDS group, new publications available, notes on the Quick Facts Bulletin Board, and lots more.

Prevention Pipeline (PP) has resumed publication, and has elected to begin volume and numbering ("Vol. 1, No. 1") all over again. The Pipeline will be produced by the new Clearinghouse. Also to note is that Alcohol Awareness Service becomes Alcohol and Drug Awareness Service and will be a part of the PP, along with coverage of new prevention research on youth, and other news from the prevention field.

Bureau of National Affairs is publishing State Legislative Reviews: Substance Abuse, which includes legislation introduced in each state in 1987, concerning human resource and labor concerns, work place issues such as drug testing, etc. Approximately 35 - 50 pp. according to the BNA client services manager, this report will include "the substance of each proposal, the status at year's end and an executive summary highlighting the actions." Some of this information is contained in National Report on Substance Abuse (BNA) if you are already subscribing.

Bibliography

Beginning with this issue of the AID Bulletin, is a bibliography on multidisabled substance abuse. Since the number of citations is too lengthy for one issue, it will be run in sections according to alphabetical order. From this first list A - D's, material covered includes journal articles, unpublished papers, chapters from books, and conference papers. The term multidisabled has been used broadly in this compilation to include mental and physical disabilities, the problems, treatment and intervention.

Kent, OH 44242

Material includes works that describe indicators of health status, social problems and alcohol consumption as well as drinking behaviors in relation to cultural, historical, sociological, anthropological, political and economic perspectives. Although most of the citations are from the 70's and 80's, a few range back as far as 1881. Subject index included.

Brief annotations are provided for 380 entries dealing with the subject of primary prevention. Material is organized by substance: alcohol, illicit drugs, pharmaceuticals, solvents and tobacco, and then subcategorized by topics: research, policy, theory, programs, international, historical, and general. Some core-knowledge materials published prior to 1981 are included as well as relevant literature on mental and cardiovascular health, public health, health promotion and law enforcement. A useful resource for program planners and managers, policy and evaluation researchers, front-line prevention workers, educators, community action groups, and students.

A new bibliography on the workplace includes more than 1,000 references covering the period 1972-1986 organized by the following topics: definitions; identification; diagnosis; companies and management; unions; safety; employee dismissal; government; specific occupations; women; counseling and treatment. This should be a good update to the ARF annotated bibliography on Occupational Alcoholism published in 1984. Author, subject, and company name indexes are a real plus in this volume, compared to the earlier work, as is the section on "specific occupations" not included in the former. A very useful reference source!
